

Miss Karre . . . Princess Attira XXXII.

Pat Karre Elected To Reign Over Ma-ie Day Festivities

Pat Karre, a 21-year-old education major, today was crowned Princess Attira XXXII, ruler of the annual Ma-ie Day festivities.

Miss Karre has been active on Student Council for two years and was this year's Ma-ie Day Chairman.

During her years at OU she has been a member of Angel Flight and an Honorary Lieutenant Colonel, Kappa Delta Pi, Alpha Lambda Delta, SEA, WRA, Spanish Club, Home Economics Club, and the Panhellenic Council.

A past-president of Chi Omega sorority, the senior was also personnel chairman and a model pledge.

Council, Publications Posts Go To Fourteen OU Students

Thirteen hours after the city closed its polls, Omaha University opened the Ben Gallagher Card Room for its own elections.

Of the 14 students elected Wednesday, only one non-affiliated candidate won an office. This year seven independent students were on the ballot for various positions.

The senior class elected Pam Adams, Kathy Wybenga, Jim Butler and Doug Slaughter as their representatives. Miss Wybenga and Slaughter are incumbents. All four are affiliated.

The only independent student elected, Sandy Friedman, was named to the junior Council. Other members include incumbent Brenda Williams, Bev Grasso and Joe Beninato.

The freshmen students elected Sue Goepper, Toni Matson and incumbents Randy Owens and Tom Fischer as representatives to the Sophomore Council. All four are affiliated.

Marcia Hanek and Margaret Daley were elected to the Board of Student Publications on a school-wide basis. Both are affiliated.

According to Council president Doug Slaughter, this year's election was light compared to other years. He said approximately 1,550 students voted and the results for all classes were close.

The Board of Student Publications vote saw the defeat of four

Terry Says 'A State U., Yes But Muny U., Great Excess'

"It's asking too much of the people of Omaha to support two schools . . . they have to support a state university; they shouldn't have to support a municipal university at the same time."

That was the reaction of State Senator Terry Carpenter when it became apparent that OU's bid for a two-mill increase had been rejected by the voters.

The Senator commented from his Scottsbluff home in a Gateway telephone interview.

He charged the state with the responsibility of supplying financial aid to the University of Omaha . . . but not as the University of Omaha, rather, as a part of the University of Nebraska.

"The way the voting is going seems to indicate that Omahans are in favor of a broadened tax base," Carpenter observed. "Sales and state income taxes would take care of that."

The Scottsbluff Senator has drafted bills asking that OU be made a part of the University of Nebraska; that the tax base be broadened to include all of Douglas County; that the Board of Regents be elected, as are Senators; and, that the state contribute a specified amount per student for junior college students.

"My bills have been sent to the bill drafters," Carpenter said. "They will probably come up in January, unless the Governor calls for a special session before then and includes my bills."

Questioned on Dr. Milo Bail's suggestion that OU be made part of a state-wide system of junior colleges, Carpenter replied, "I'm in favor of it! Dr. Bail's proposal would call for some changes in our constitution, but I think it's a good idea."

Ma-ie Day Festivities Bring Campus To Life

Under the "Signs of Superstition" the OU campus is alive today with the gala Ma-ie Day festivities.

The day began at 7 a.m. with a breakfast and a TGIMD dance accompanied by the Fortes Combo. The meal included french toast, bacon, orange juice, milk and coffee.

The 9:30 a.m. announcement of the Ma-ie Day Princess was followed by the varsity football scrimmage in the Stadium.

Lunch will be served in the Pep Bowl at 11:30 a.m. For 50 cents it includes steak on a bun, spaghetti, pickles and coffee and milk.

At 12:30 the games will begin. They include climbing a greased flag pole, egg toss, three-legged race, leap-frog, pass the orange and a pie-eating contest.

The parade will assemble in the parking lot behind the Field House at 1:30 p.m. At 2:30 p.m. the parade will begin, starting down Dodge Street, through the downtown area and back to OU.

The Ma-ie Day Dance will begin at 9 p.m. at Peony Park Ballroom. Admission is one activity card per OU student and one dollar for guests. The T-Bones will play at the semi-formal dance.

The winner of the float and decorated car competition will be announced at the dance.

Omahans Say No To Mill Increase

By Lothar Luken

"Millions for sewers, not one cent for the University," sums up Tuesday's election results.

The city closed the polls at 8 p.m. All that remained then were the agonizing tabulations.

During that long night, Omaha University never mustered enough strength to enter the win column. The early returns showed OU losing by a narrow margin of 14 votes; later returns turned progressively worse.

The count as of Wednesday morning is now a matter of record: 38,048 against, 28,631 for.

Ballot 11 was, ironically, the only of the special ballots failing to receive enough popular support. Acceptance of the ballot would have meant a mill increase of two mills, in addition to the present two.

But out of 14 wards, OU received the majority support of only two. Ward 9, in West Omaha, fell in solidly behind the University. Ward 2, in North Omaha, was split nearly evenly with a slight majority in favor of the mill increase bid.

The biggest setback came from Wards 8, located between Pacific Street and Interstate 80, and 12, covering part of North Omaha between Ames and Reed Streets. Geography wasn't a major factor in the defeat.

At midnight, with only 20 per cent of the precincts yet to report, President Leland Traywick delivered his statement.

"We will now have to turn to other sources for aid," the President told newsmen and Omaha voters.

Earlier in the day, President Emeritus Milo Bail told the Gateway OU should still become a part of the state's educational system even if the mill levy is increased.

He added a victory would have solved only the financial problems of the next two years.

Traywick

(Midnight Tuesday): We regret that the citizens of Omaha have not seen fit to increase their support of the University and that the vote was not favorable. We have an excellent university . . . It needs help.

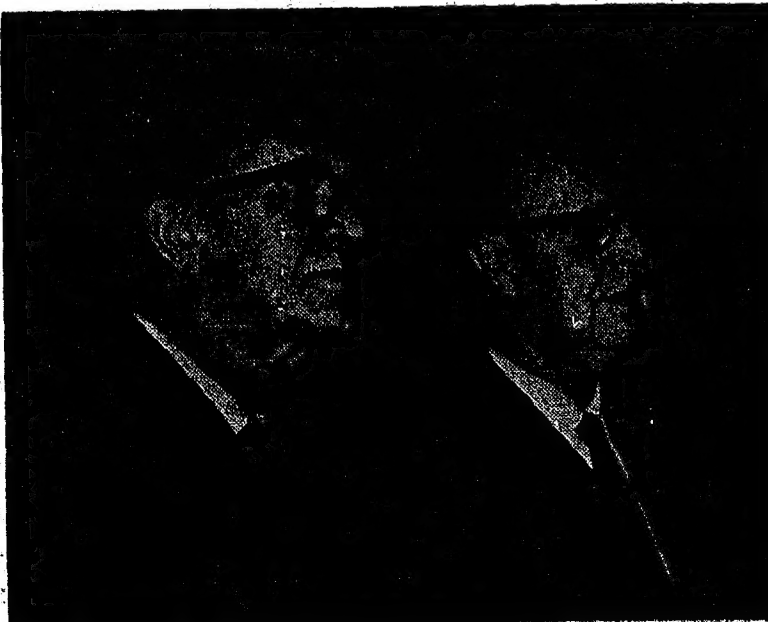

We will now have to turn to other sources for aid . . . This has not been thought out nor has it been presented to the Board of Regents for approval . . .

Let me say a special word of thanks to all who have worked so hard in this campaign. We are most grateful to students, faculty, Board members, alumni, and the many, many friends of the University of Omaha. We appreciate all you have done. Our heads are high. We will carry on in all the good traditions of the University of Omaha.

What the future holds is still somewhat doubtful. A tuition-hike seems inevitable. Meanwhile Omaha's fine, new streets will lead to a finance-troubled University of Omaha.

Letters To The Editor

Feer, Fobia And Phools

Once upon a time there was a man. He was intent on proving the world was round, not square. A woman, bless her soul, believed him. And because of this, our great nation exists. The fact that he was in error is irrelevant. Because if one is really interested in the granting of credit, where did the Indian come from?

Speaking of credit being granted—what are we about? I hear tell, and I know darn well, that someone is interested in a similar principle—involving roundness and squareness. Ostensibly, (perhaps a wrong word, I wonder?) this organization is attempting to justify by an objective measure of one's smarts whether or not he is college material.

If one scores at a certain level, it means that he won't have to burn his draft card, become a pacifist, join a left-wing organization, become a heavyweight boxer, or sail across the same "patch of blue" to defend that which was accomplished by the individual in the first paragraph.

How about that Ivory Tower? Do you feel something slipping? It's not Rickover's shade! Perhaps we should have another accrediting organization? As if this isn't bad enough, (whoops there I go again, using that new alphabet!), we have "educators" (aw come on, they are too!) publishing a handbook for college students on how to pass a general aptitude test which assumes no education, indeed assumes nothing!, beyond high school. As Mad Dog Vachone would say, "How's that grab ya?"

Intellectually, "ahem", I say there, isn't this a bit of a paradox? By Max Rafferty I say, "Let's all capitalize on the anxiety, the apprehension, the ulcerousness of this 1966 dilemma." God is dead, so is Honour, so is Loyalty, so is Education, so is Virtue, so is Dow Jones and all his little averages!

When an institution of higher education succumbs to a "one shot diagnosis," to say nothing of the preparational aspects, of determining the privilege of attending Siwash U. or Saigon U., and then tolerates the "helping hand" bit, (which indeed has already resulted in a considerable profit to them—ostensibly? . . .) perhaps the cloak of tradition is revealed.

I pledge allegiance to the flag and to the united efforts to stamp out character because I can't see it. I just can't see it . . .

Mayor Sorensen Comments:—

OU Facing Difficult Problem

With regard to the defeat of the mill levy increase for Omaha University Wednesday, Mayor A. V. Sorensen had these comments.

"President Traywick and Omaha University have my sympathies. I think Traywick is a good educator and a good man in a good school that is facing a very difficult problem."

Sorensen added that "I did not feel that the mill levy issue should be placed on the ballot at this time. However, the Board of Regents felt otherwise and they are in a position to know what is best. I told Dr. Traywick of my feelings about the matter some time ago."

In answer to what he feels the future of OU should be with rising costs and enrollment, the Mayor said "I am not in a position to know what all the costs and details are in that regard."

Asked, "Do you think OU should attempt mill levy support in the future or assume that it is a dead issue?" Sorensen answered, "I think they (OU) should accept my invitation to work with me in selection of a 'Blue Ribbon' committee."

"We would try to work out these problems and do what we can to assist the college."

'God Is Dead' Debate Healthy, Says Canham

The editor-in-chief of the Christian Science Monitor paid a visit to the OU campus Tuesday.

Erwin D. Canham presided at a 3:30 to 5 p.m. reception held for him in the Student Center under the sponsorship of the University of Omaha Christian Science Organization.

The Monitor chief fielded questions from students and faculty members attending the reception ranging from "is God dead?" to "is a monopoly newspaper bad?"

Asked his reactions to the "is God dead?" debate, Canham quipped, "I don't know when God has had so much publicity!" He said the debate "is the greatest thing that has happened to religion in a long time, because people are again asking themselves questions about what God means to them." He explained that the result has been a "deeper, more profound concept of God."

One student brought up the fact that Omaha has only one newspaper, and the group that controls the paper also controls one of Omaha's television stations. She then asked, "Is such a situation dangerous?"

Replied Canham, "I favor pluralism. However, monopoly is not necessarily dangerous. In a situation such as this there are some elements of danger, but that depends on the sense of responsibility of the group that controls the media. Pluralism in journalism can lead to sensationalism."

When asked if newspapers are hard-pressed by the competition from television, Canham explained, "Newspapers and television supplement each other rather than compete. Time limitations make television news little more than a series of news bulletins. For an in-depth look at what's going on in the world, people go to the newspaper for the details. Television merely whets their appetites for the complete story."

Canham, who is currently on a worldwide speaking tour, briefly described the various types of newspapers, government bodies and businesses in the many cities he has recently visited.

The tour is part of the Christian Science Church's centennial activities. Canham's stop at the OU campus preceded a Tuesday night speaking engagement at the City Auditorium.

Food Service Is Rated Tops

By Rich Lundgren

Carol Graham and her employees have good reason to be boastful about their "continuous service."

For the first time in the history of OU, the food service department received an "excellent rating" from the Omaha-Douglas County Department of Health.

Mrs. Graham said that of the more than 1500 food services rated last November, 59 received the excellent tag. Of these, 35 included grade schools and high schools.

The Food Service manager said that this makes it easier since they serve only one meal a day, but at OU "we have continuous service from 7 a.m. till 10 p.m."

The Health Department bases the rating on general housekeeping, dish washing methods, and food handling methods. Mrs. Graham added that other basis for rating are construction of equipment, cleanliness of employees, lighting and ventilation.

"We always received an "excellent-good" but never an "excellent," which is difficult when you serve some 6000 daily. This is something that my people have worked for . . . it is a community project," Mrs. Graham said.

OUR Man Chester: Hang Down Your Head 'Cause It's Test Time

By Bob Bales

This week, Bob Bales is filling in as guest columnist, while OUR Man Chester completes research for future columns.

Remember how in kindergarten and first grade you'd have a nap period and sleep on either your desk or on your own rug?

Then, just after you had finally dozed off, one of the teacher's pets came around and tapped you on the head and nap period was over.

Well, none of OU's professors hold nap periods, but there is an intern in the psychology department who has a very unusual way of administering tests.

The intern reportedly demands that all students look down only at their test papers. They cannot raise their heads once, even at the end of the test. If they do, he takes up the test paper.

Reach For The Sky

When the students are finished, they must lay down their pencils, which cannot be picked up again. Then, looking up, they must raise both hands in the air, turn in their papers and depart.

When asked about this, the intern denied that he makes his students raise both hands in the air. Jokingly, he said, "The only reason they may raise their hands is for protection from getting hit for raising their eyes."

How uncomfortable is this test atmosphere?

Dick Sanders, a journalism freshman said, "My neck was really getting stiff so I raised my head up for a second. He signaled me immediately to get it down."

Liberal arts freshman Chuck Ellick admitted, "It does get tiring looking down for an hour, but I don't feel I have to cheat, so it really doesn't bother me."

The Presto—Change-o Bit

You know how many professors rearrange the questions on every other test in an effort to combat cheating?

He does that too!

"You could hardly cheat anyhow," said Sanders. "You'd have to look over two desks to the side or over the shoulders of the person in front of you."

"Education freshman Barb Rossi added, "You'd need some pretty strong glasses to cheat in there. If we were going to cheat, I think we would use a more devious method."

Are Omaha U. students such ardent cheaters to warrant this type of instruction?

"He says he doesn't think anyone would cheat but he doesn't want to take any chances," said business sophomore Bill Sackett. "I don't cheat. If I can't get my grade honestly, I don't feel I deserve a college education."

Better Know Skinner Family!

When asked what type of questions he includes on his tests, the intern said, "I ask very unique questions designed to make the student think. It is a teaching technique and no one is expected to get them all right."

For example, in one test he asked, "Where did B. F. Skinner's wife get her Ph.D.?"

"I'm not trying to ruin a student because these quizzes are only equal to one-sixth of their total grade," he said.

Sabre Drill Team Captures Victory, Gains Experience

The atmosphere may have been good in Boulder, Colo., last month, but it was better in Lincoln, Nebr., last Friday, as the SABRE Drill team pulled a first-place victory in the Phalanx Invitational Drill meet.

The SABRES gained the victory after getting top ratings in the judging areas of guide, cover, precision, military bearing and performance of the commander.

After the third-place at the Boulder Meet the freshman SABRES found that drill meets are nothing to fear as they topped some of the best teams in the area. Two-thirds of the teams are first-year members.

Creighton University's Army team fell to the SABRES along with Nebraska's Pershing Rifles and Navy and Air Force teams.

Although no records were set on the trip to Lincoln, the team managed to compile much needed experience which may be an asset in next year's Boulder meet.

Beat The Heat At Summer Session

Want to beat the heat this summer?

Here's your chance—sign up for the five-week summer sessions offered in OU's air conditioned classrooms.

Two five-week sessions will be held. The first runs from June 13 through July 15; the second, July 15 to August 19. Classes meet Monday through Friday. An evening session is scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays from June 14 to August 4.

Some 200 courses, spanning 31 areas of study, are being scheduled. Both graduate and undergraduate programs will be offered as well as courses for teacher certification and professional growth.

Special courses are planned in reading, speech therapy, school administration, library science and mental retardation.

Short course workshops on the agenda will cover economic education, driver training, recreation, speech and music.

Students presently enrolled can apply to register by mail by clipping the coupon from the summer schedule and returning it to the admissions office.

Special Registration

A special summer-school registration day has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 18.

All currently enrolled undergraduates, who did not register by mail, and all currently enrolled graduates may register then.

Registration will be in the Registrar's Office (220, Ad Building) from 8:30-3:30 on this day.

Students must see their advisors at their convenience. All fees must be paid at the time of registration.

Packets can be picked up ahead of time in the Registrar's office.

Any students who did not take advantage of the mail registration and do not register Wednesday, may register by the published schedule for June 10 and 11.

Historians Meet, Trickett Will Host

Dr. A. Stanley Trickett, chairman of the history department, announced that Omaha will host a convention of at least one thousand historians in 1969.

Dr. Trickett is chairman of the local arrangements committee, which includes the full staff of the department of history at OU and representatives of other educational and cultural institutions throughout eastern Nebraska.

The Western History Association will hold its convention with other national historical groups Oct. 9-11, 1969.

The Universities of Omaha and Nebraska are among 43 sponsoring association members. Charter members are Dr. Trickett and Professors Fred Adrian and Roy Robbins.

Plans are under consideration to publish a special issue of the association's magazine, "The American West," devoted to the Omaha convention.

Reviewer Offers Tips For Draft Test Takers

By Vern Johnson

No one wants to get caught in the draft! This information, though, doesn't guarantee a life deferment, but at least enough time to finish your college education. This means even you with a lower-than-average accumulative grade.

The answer is a simple one. Be well-prepared when you take your Selective Service Draft Deferment Test. For those who haven't registered to take this test, there will be other chances to register.

There are several books on the market which give advice on how to score high on these tests. One which sells for only a dollar is "How to score high on your Selective Service Draft Deferment Test."

This book was compiled by Jeremy Martin and a staff of aptitude test experts. It includes such things as a complete warm-up exam, a special course in testmanship, full information on the test, comprehensive practice material and an intensive verbal and mathematical review.

This information has been compiled from the latest bulletins concerning the college qualification test published by Selective Service. This book is designed to help a student to achieve the highest possible score.

How The Book Helps

The book does two main things. It shows you how to answer with maximum speed the various types of multiple choice questions, as well as budgeting examination time. The second thing it does is show you how to discover your weaknesses and correct them most efficiently.

Examples are: Answering special types of reading comprehension and word relationship questions, arithmetic reasoning, algebra and trigonometry questions, reading charts, tables and graphs, and answering questions raised on these statistical presentations.

The multiple choice question is one type given in the examination. One example of this would be the following:

- The second president of the United States was:
 - Abraham Lincoln
 - John Adams
 - Thomas Jefferson
 - John Q. Adams
 - James Madison

Of course, the answer is John Adams. If one did not read the question carefully, they could have understood the question to ask for the second greatest president. Another type is the question and answer multiple choice:

- What is the ultimate objective of a political party?
 - To better the lives of the electorate.
 - To enable it to negotiate with foreign powers.
 - To make sweeping reforms.
 - To carry out its ideas of justice.
 - To win control of the government.

There are also incomplete statements and completion type multiple choice questions:

- The first months of Franklin D. Roosevelt's presidency were characterized by the critical . . . problems with which he was faced.

a. economic	c. military	e. practical
b. financial	d. political

The test has a section on matching of words which have similar meanings and words which have opposite meanings.

The examination also has word relation questions:

- Seed: Corn

a. bush: tree	d. pollen: bee
b. root: grass	e. baby: man
c. acorn: oak

The reading comprehension consists of short paragraphs with following multiple choice questions pertaining to the paragraph. These questions ask for the main idea, conclusions that can be drawn, and topics under which the paragraph may be classified.

The author warns students taking the exam, to watch for questions that have "always" and "never" in them. These are usually incorrect.

The vocabulary usage section is divided into four divisions—these are synonyms, antonyms, word analogies, adverbial completions. An example of the synonym is as follows:

foment—a. extinguish b. soothe c. rise d. incite e. caress

An antonym question might look like this:

temerity—a. timidity b. presumption c. joyousness d. discipline e. entreaty

A word analogy could be as follows:

runner—sled a. snow—plough b. ball—bat c. pencil—paper d. wheel—wagon e. salt—pepper

A verbal completion looks like this:

Other things being equal, salary tends to increase with age; and of two persons at the same.....level, the younger is on the average the better qualified.

a. mental b. salary c. age d. physical e. statistical Confucius say "One picture is worth a thousand words." He was right if he was talking about the deferment test. There are many questions based upon reading charts, tables and graphs.

Studying this book will be extra insurance for deferment if you are taking the test.

Elections—Council, Publications Posts

independent students: Judy Wilson, George Ryck, Rich Lundgren and Lothar A. Luken.

Chet McCarthy and Paula Magzamin, both non-affiliated, were defeated in their bid for a Council seat.

Wednesday's election marked the climax of two weeks of campaigning by 52 students. Twelve of the elected 14 students were interviewed by the Gateway last week. At this time, these students were asked why they chose to run for their particular office.

Among the comments was this one by Jim Butler: "To belong to the Council you must be informed of campus activities." Another Senior Council member, Kathy Wybenga, stated that she enjoys trying to "promote the welfare of the students." Miss Wybenga is a student teacher in addition to being a member of various campus organizations. Butler is an art major and was president of the Junior Class.

The newly-elected member of the Senior Council, Pam Adams, is an English major and is on the honor's list. The fourth member is incumbent Doug Slaughter who is the current Ambassador in the Experiment in International Living. He cited his three years experience on the Council as his qualification for the Senior Council seat.

Sandy Friedman was first elected last year, the only independent student elected to the Council in five years. He told the GATEWAY there "is a need for independents in student government." He is a pre-med major.

Newly-elected member, Bev Grasso was a Council member in her freshman year. The liberal arts major said she gets satisfaction from helping her fellow students. The fourth member, Joe Beninato, is an accounting major and active in athletics and various campus organizations.

Both Randy Owens and Tom Fischer were re-elected to the Council. They will represent the sophomore students next year. Fischer is majoring in political science; Owens is a pre-med major.

The newly-elected Sophomore Council members, Toni Matson and Sue Goepper, are majoring in home economics and biology respectively.

Miss Goepper told the Gateway that ambition, conscientiousness and a willingness to present unbiased opinions are needed to hold the position. Miss Matson cited her experience on high school student council as a qualification for her present bid.

New Draft Test Date

There will be a fourth and final test in the current series of Selective Service College Qualification tests. This test will be held Friday, June 24, 1966.

Any registrant who has not previously taken the test, and is not scheduled to take it in the current series, may now apply. Applications must be postmarked no later than June 1, 1966.

The same application forms will be used for this test. The date for the last test should be changed to June 24, 1966 on the application card, and "postmark Deadline" should be changed to June 1, 1966.

Instructor To Texas School

By Jim Vlcek

Bill Woodruff, instructor of physics at OU, was recently notified that he had won a one-year physics scholarship to attend Texas A and M University.

This scholarship is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and is made available on the basis of school and personal recommendations. The scholarship will apply one year's schooling toward Woodruff's Ph.D. in physics.

After obtaining a one-year leave of absence from the University, he will enter Texas A and M for the fall semester of 1966.

Woodruff has been teaching in the Physics Department for the past two years and plans to return to teaching upon completion of the scholarship.

It was through the Nuclear Engineering Department and extensive work in the field of radioisotope technology that he received the scholarship.

Finding it challenging to keep up with the latest changes and advances in the field of nuclear physics, Woodruff finds rewarding enjoyment in the study of radioisotopes and their applications.

Emery Named Tops By IEEE

The Outstanding Physics Student of the Year award has been given to James Dale Emery.

He was presented the award for his work in general physics by the Nebraska section of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers at a joint meeting with the University of Omaha student group of IEEE members.

Emery is a sophomore and is planning a double major in physics and mathematics.

An illustrated talk on "Direct Energy Conversion from Fuel Cells" by Len Nuttall was also given at the meeting. Nuttall is a senior applications engineer, in the direct energy conversion operation for General Electric Company.

Informal Meeting

The Student Council met informally Wednesday. No formal meeting was called as some members were involved in the counting of ballots.

The remaining members discussed final Ma-ic Day plans.

Install Unit Of Phi Kappa Phi

The installation of the Corinthian Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi national honorary will take place next Thursday at 5 p.m. in room 319 of the Student Center.

About 40 undergraduates and 20 alumni will be initiated. They represent only a portion of the total membership composing the new chapter.

Dr. Archie Solberg, dean of graduate school at the University of Toledo and director of fellowships for PKP, will officially install the new OU chapter.

He will meet with various faculty members and students prior to the installation.

At 4:15 May 19, 25 faculty members will be installed as the original chapter. Room 319 of the Student Center will also be the site of the installation.

The Honors Banquet will begin at 6 p.m. the same day. The University will honor PKP, ODK and Waokiya at the dinner. Nine undergraduates will be honored for earning degrees with distinction plus three more who will be winning advanced fellowships.

Mrs. Bernice Slote will be the banquet speaker. She is poet, member of the Nebraska University faculty and editor of the campus literary magazine "Prairie Schooner."

Economics Club Becomes Member ODE Honorary

The Omaha University Economics Club has been accepted for membership in Omicron Delta Epsilon, national economics honorary.

The national president of the honorary will be on campus this fall to install OU's Beta chapter.

Dr. Elroy Steele, head of the OU Department of Economics, received word of the acceptance last week. The club had applied in March.

Requirements for membership in the honorary are a 3.0 overall grade point average and above a 3.0 for 12 hours of economics.

Present members are Dr. Steele, faculty advisor, President Leland Traywick, and faculty members George Harris, Dr. William Brown, Dr. Perry Chang, Glen Lewis, and Dr. W.C.B. Lambert.

Omicron Delta Epsilon has 425 chapters, with OU's chapter being the first one in Nebraska.

'Sand' For Sale At OU Bookstore

The spring issue of the Omaha University literary magazine, The Grain of Sand, is on the stands at the bookstore.

The magazine, composed of short stories and poems submitted by OU students, sells for 45 cents.

The editorial board for the publication is as follows: Sally Schlu, chairman; Jim Faiman, Linda Flack, Mark Hallgren and Gary Johnson, all staff members.

Senior Day Bustle

Senior classes will be dismissed next Friday at 10:30 a.m. for Senior Day activities.

Outstanding seniors will be honored at the Senior Day program at 10:30 a.m. Following the program, there will be groundbreaking ceremonies for the Rendezvous, the senior class gift to the University.

Senior Day activities will be concluded that evening with a dinner dance at the Holiday Inn. It will begin at 6:30 p.m. and last until midnight.

Reservations may still be made by sending $3.00 per person to Omaha University, Box 96.

Yell-Belle Tryouts

Cheerleading tryouts will be held next Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the OU stadium. Coeds trying out will be divided into groups of two and three and must perform four cheers.

A panel of three judges will choose eight varsity cheerleaders and one substitute. Only two cheerleaders are returning to school and will be trying out again.

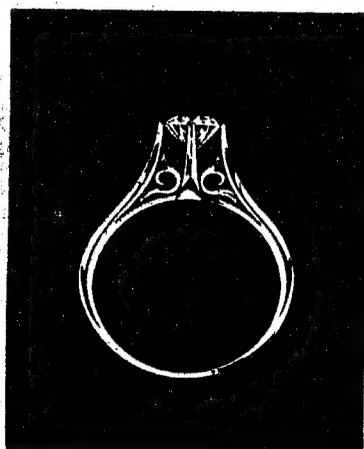

"The opportunity for making the squad this year is greater than it has been for four years," Kristy Wolff, cheerleading captain, said.

Accounting Club Meet

The OU Accounting Club will meet Tuesday noon, May 17, in Dining Room B, Student Center.

Election of officers and discussion of accounting curriculum of students are on the meeting's agenda.

Who is your ideal date? Thousands use Central Control and its high-speed computer for a live, flesh-and-blood answer to this question.

Your ideal date — such a person exists, of course. But how to get acquainted? Our Central Control computer processes 10,000 names an hour. How long would it take you to meet and form an opinion of that many people?

You will be matched with five ideally suited persons of the opposite sex, right in your own locale (or in any area of the U.S. you specify). Simply, send $3.00 to Central Control for your questionnaire. Each of the five will be as perfectly matched with you in interests, outlook and background as computer science makes possible.

Central Control is nationwide, but its programs are completely localized. Hundreds of thousands of vigorous and alert subscribers, all sharing the desire to meet their ideal dates, have found computer dating to be exciting and highly acceptable.

All five of your ideal dates will be delightful. So hurry and send your $3.00 for your questionnaire.

Tompsett, Wilkins Shape-Up Spring Sing Lambda Chi Crowd Names ZTA's Sue Zimmer Queen

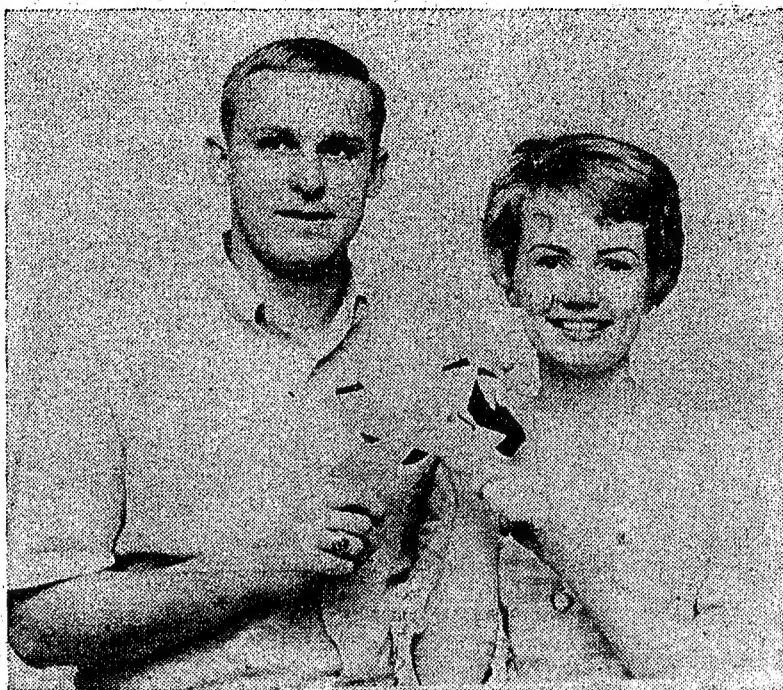

The annual Spring Sing sponsored by Waokiya, senior women's honorary and Omicron Delta Kappa, senior men's honorary will be held in the Student Center Ballroom Wednesday at 7:00 p.m.

Beginning the evening will be the contest songs presented by the fraternities and sororities. The men's song is "I'm Just a Motherless Child" and the women's song is "Charade."

Following the singing will be the tapping of new members for Waokiya and ODK. To be eligible for Waokiya one must have a 3.0 accumulative average. ODK requires a minimum of a 2.5.

The Corinthian society of Phi Kappa Phi will announce new members.

Rich Tompsett, Omicron Delta Kappa, and Priscilla Wilkins are in charge of arrangements.

Spring Sing chairmen Rich Tompsett and Priscilla Wilkins.

Sue Zimmer of Zeta Tau Alpha was named Mardi Gras Queen Friday night at the Lambda Chi Alpha dance.

Sue, 20, is an elementary education major. She is the ZTA's liaison officer.

The brown-eyed blonde is a member of WRA, Ski Club and SEA. She won second place in the WRA mixed doubles bowling tournament and is a member of Indianes.

She was chosen from an all-Greek vote at the Mardi Gras dance. The Echoes combo played for the dance.

Sue gets the trophy.

A Little Grind

Chi Omega has pledged Michele Vaughn in open bidding. Michele starred in "The Mad Women of Chaillot" and has a 3.6 average.

Dancers In Action

Orchesis, modern dance honorary, will present its annual dance concert Monday at 8 p.m. in the Adm. auditorium. Theme is "Movement in Space." The public is invited, and admission is free.

Float Chairmen Beset By Headaches As Groups Grapple With Artificial Flowers

by Dianne Johnson

"Signs of superstitions" were evident all over town last month as organizations prepared floats for today's Ma-ie Day parade with that theme in mind. Cost of building the floats was high, both financially and physically. Some spent in the hundreds, but each took its toll in exhausted float chairmen. Thinking of a theme was the first of many headaches . . . finding a place to build and flatbeds to place them on proved to be no easy task.

The difficulty involved in finding float sites resulted in locations groups considered somewhat short of ideal.

Complaining on the behalf of Zeta Tau Alpha was Pat Rothe: "We didn't mind the location so much, and the rats weren't so bad, but the indoor pigeons have been a real nusiance!" she said.

Construction of the frame proved to be a real problem for the girls. Lynn Gorton said that this year the Chi Omega float had to be redesigned by the girls' fathers because the plans the girls drew up simply could not be made of wood.

Gordon Krogh of Tau Kappa Epsilon said that men don't have that problem. "We just go ahead and build it, and if it doesn't turn out, we just change the theme!"

Most of the groups escaped from the dirt and poor lighting of float sites Wednesday night as the partly-finished floats rolled into the field house.

This morning the rush is over. Floats sit complacently in the field house. It's too late to stuff those suddenly-appearing holes in the chickenwire . . . too late to anchor down flowers that so often fall at the mercy of the wind—the floats are as ready as they ever will be.

After countless hours of work the floats will be pulled through downtown Omaha. Some will disintegrate during the parade . . . others will fall at hands of dismantlers at the journey's end. Some labors will be rewarded with prizes.

At any rate, float chairmen will sleep well tonight, probably for the first time in a month.

The UNIVERSITY OF OMAHA Gateway SPORTS

OU's Bowlers Retain National Bowling Title

Omaha University's national bowling champions retained their title Saturday in Kansas City.

The two-time winners won by the comfortable margin of 709 pins over Quincy, Illinois. Omaha recorded 16,298 pins to Quincy's 15,589.

Bill Poff had the highest average for Omaha with 188.7. The top average was 193. Other Omaha averages were: Tom Kahley, 186.3; Dave Richardson, 179.7; Steve Sheppard, 179.6; Bill Olson, 168.9.

Omaha's march to the title included a record pinfall in the regional rollofs of 6216. Bill Olson led Omaha with a six-game total of 1300 in the rolloff.

In the tournament, Omaha played two game matches against all of the other seven teams. Nine games fell on the first day and six on Saturday.

Omaha finished the first round with a 7-2 record and a pin count of 9,000.

The key victory for Omaha was its win over Concord, West Virginia in the first round by a score of 935 to 850. Concord was in second place at the time and slipped to third after the defeat.

The repeat victory by Omaha marked a three-year reign by Nebraska schools. Kearney State won in 1964.

Intramural director Burt Kurth, who accompanied the team to Kansas City, was pleased with the trip and the accommodations in that city.

The final tournament standings:

OMAHA	11	4	16,298
Quincy	10	5	15,589
Concord	9	6	15,405
Rider	8	7	15,347
Pacific	7	8	15,127
Harding	7	8	14,945
Northern State	5	10	13,734
Mississippi Valley State	3	12	13,201

Golfer's Kudo Sub-Par Card

By Gary Anderson

Have you ever wondered what a golfer thinks about when he shoots a sub-par round?

Jim Thompson, an OU golf team member, says that he didn't think about his score until he looked at the scorecard at the end of the round. Thompson shot five birdies en route to a three under par 67 at Miracle Hills Thursday.

Thompson's opponent shot three straight birdies to begin the match, but he fought back to defeat his counterpart 35-39 on the front nine.

After the twelfth hole Thompson was three holes down but then he birdied the thirteenth and the par three fifteenth hole. Still behind, Thompson parred 16 and birdied the par five seventeenth.

Since Thompson's opponent still led by one hole, Jim needed another birdie to tie the second nine and win the match. His iron shot on the short par three sailed on the green and Thompson dropped the putt.

Jim finished the round 35-32—67 for his lowest round ever. His previous low was a 73 at Miracle. Par at Miracle is 35-35—70.

Omaha won the match 8-7 over Fort Hays.

Takes A-OK, Animals First

TKE defeated the Mustangs 14-5 Monday to remain undefeated and grab the League I title.

In League II, the Animals defeated the Glovemen 16-4 to finish in first place with a 5-1 record.

The championship of the overall league will be decided next week after the Bums and the Glovemen play to determine the League III title. Both have 4-2 slates.

TKE will play the League III winner and the Animals will play that winner for the play-off championship.

Intrasquad Clash Today At 10 A.M.

Head football coach Al Caniglia's players hit the gridiron today for a 10 a.m. intrasquad clash.

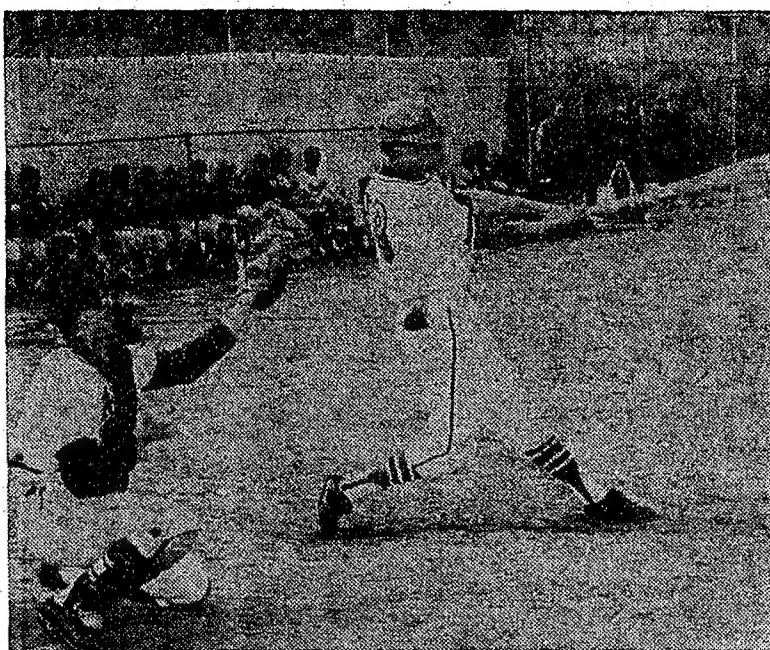

"We've tried to split the squad right down the middle; so, it should be a pretty evenly matched tilt," he explained.

This will be a good learning device for the team and coaches.

Score will be kept and the coaches will evaluate the films to see how some of the new squad members react.

There will be no kickoffs or punts because of the added possibilities of injuries. But other than that it will be a regulation game with four officials.

OU Baseballers Lose CIC Tilt

The baseball team, busy with the Nebraska Wesleyan Tournament today, has seen the CIC championship and a single game with Drake slip through their grasp since last week. All the team has to show for their efforts lately are two wins over Hastings Monday, and a pair of wins from Emporia in the conference tourney.

Drake Victors

Drake University handed OU a 3 to 1 setback Tuesday at the OU diamond, on an extremely cold afternoon. The Bulldogs, nearly stymied by the sharp pitching of OU freshman Irv Rehder iced the victory in the ninth inning with two runs on two hits.

Rehder fell victim to shaky support in the contest as two of Drake's runs were unearned.

OU's single tally came in the eighth when Rich Lang tripped to left and scored on a sacrifice fly.

Hastings Stopped

A surprised Hastings College team could collect only four hits from Omaha pitching Monday at the OU diamond. The Indians found scoring not too easy though as they won the games by 3-to-0 and 3-to-2.

Ken McEwen, in gaining his fifth win against no defeats, allowed Hastings one hit in his five innings of duty. Jack Holder in relief gave up only one more. McEwen, Joe Berenis and Rich Vacek provided the batting strength as they all drove in runs.

In the second game, Frosh Larry Carlson put in his bid for a no hitter until the sixth inning when Hastings collected their two runs on their only hits. Irv Rehder finished for Carlson in the seventh. Ron Bernth and Herb Johnson each went two for two in the Indians' seven hit attack.

Four Tracksters Close Collegiate Career in CIC

Four members of the University of Omaha's track team will officially end their collegiate track competition with the CIC championships today and tomorrow at Emporia, Kansas.

Ken Gould, the durable wonder; and senior hurdler Clyde Ketelsen were the co-captains for this year's young team.

Dependable, Ed Neel, and Gary Power will be greatly missed, for they scored many valuable points for the big red and white—OU.

Competing in the CIC today will be Max Kurz in the sprints; Don Glasgow and Jim McMahon in the 440-yd. dash; and the durable wonder, Ken Gould, will compete in two of the following three events, 3-mile, mile run, or the 3,000 meter steeplechase.

Others competing are Carl (Atlas) Goodman in the shot; Sam Singleton in high jump; Clyde Cogelia in the long jump and triple jump; and Dennis Browne in the discus event.

OU Wins Dual

In the dual meet with Peru State Tuesday the cindermen won by a decisive margin, 80 to 65.

Max Kurz won handily in the 100 and 220 with times of :10.6 and :23.4; Dennis Ondilla won the 440-yd. dash event and Clyde Ketelsen won the 120-yd. high hurdles.

Gould breezed to victory in the 2-mile run, his winning time, 10:06.4.

Double duty Clyde Cogelia won the triple jump and broad jump with jumps of 40-7½ and 20-6 respectively. Singleton won the high jump as usual with a leap of 6-2½.

OU Relay

OU's mile relay team of Kurz, Anderson, McMahon and Dennis Ondilla won easily with the time of 3:35.1.

Rick Davis, Ketelsen, Ondilla and Kurz combined to win the 440-yd. relay event.

The 330-yd. intermediate hurdles was won by Ketelsen and the mile run was won by Gould.

Peckham Shows International Trade Film

George J. Peckham, international representative of the Nebraska Consolidated Mills, was the guest of the International Relations Club, Friday, May 6, in Room 315 of the Student Center.

He showed a film on the American Institute of Foreign Trade, a school that prepares individuals for careers in international trade. A graduate of the Institute, Peckham discussed opportunities in the international business field and his experiences as a representative of American firms in several Latin American countries and in Europe.

OU's Struggle Recognized By Monitor

Omaha University's tax struggle made headlines last week in the Christian Science Monitor. The faculty views were cited in the article.

Dr. George Rachford explained the reason for such a struggle. He was quoted as saying, "We've had no bonding capacity. The money had to be in hand before any building could be put up. It makes it hard for people to understand our needs when they learn we have no major debt."

Regents Comment on Results—

Regents Try To Envision Next Step

The Gateway interviewed the Regents Tuesday night and Wednesday morning about the OU mill levy defeat.

President Varro H. Rhodes admitted, "We don't know the answer. First we have to answer two questions: what kind of university do we want and how do we operate a university of this type?" He was not certain whether tuition would definitely increase. "We may stay the size we are by limiting enrollment," he added.

Margaret R. Fischer commented, "I had hoped for a successful mill levy. It would have solved many problems.

"I am terribly disappointed that Omaha taxpayers look at such a small tax increase so unfavorably. I hoped Omahans would recognize fine students," Miss Fischer said.

Samuel Greenberg's reaction was that "the University's endeavor is to do something about tuition. The Regents are walking a tightrope. They must increase tuition to get money for necessities."

Greenberg went on to give his philosophy about OU in elections. "OU is in a difficult position in elections. It is an election without fanfare.

"Politicians seem to have unlimited campaign funds. The University must count its money carefully, which is obviously a handicap. We couldn't afford the type of campaign that would capture the electorate's imagination," he reasoned.

Greenberg does hope the University remains autonomous and self-sufficient.

Frank Fogarty shared Greenberg's optimism. "I hope for the best," Fogarty said.

"The election defeat is a very serious matter and will require the full thought of the Regents," said C. F. Moulton.

The newest Regent, Richard Nisley thought the results were "very disappointing. It shows Omaha people don't have enough interest in education." He went on to say, "At this point it looks dark. The University must come up with funds for immediate and long range needs."

Dr. Herbert H. Davis believes "education is fundamental to the city, state and nation. I believe this vote has done great damage to the city, but it won't close up the University."

Robert M. Spire said, "We are profoundly disappointed in the results of the mill levy election. However we have a fine university guided by an outstanding faculty. Therefore, not withstanding this election, we intend to maintain a fine university and further promote its growth. To do this, we will have to seek funds," Spire concluded.

Kenneth B. Young was unavailable for comment.

Methods Studied In Large Kitchen

Studying methods of work simplification in a kitchen is only one phase of the home economics course, Institutional Equipment.

According to course instructor Mrs. Phyllis Armstrong, the main purpose of the course is to teach the student to successfully plan a large kitchen with the necessary equipment.

So far this semester three representatives of institutional equipment firms have visited class sessions and explained their equipment.

All lab periods are spent in the food service departments of Clarkson and Bergan Mercy hospitals, Tech High School and Omaha University.

One lab period was spent with an institutional kitchen designer from an Omaha architectural firm going over current kitchen plans and specifications.

During the second half of the semester each student will design an institutional kitchen and write specifications for the large equipment.

Mrs. Armstrong feels this is a challenge to the student to select the proper arrangement of equipment so as to insure the smooth continuous flow of work.

President Traywick and Ouampi began election day by visiting students like Ellen Kreifels who manned the polls, giving out OU information.

Business Honorary Initiated

The Nebraska Chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma, a national business scholastic honorary society, initiated the following people at OU on May 6:

Students: Joyce Dusek, accounting; John Anstey, personnel management; Jay Atwell, accounting.

Alumnus: Dean Ullerich, accounting.

Faculty: Robert Benecke, assistant professor, accounting; Dr. William Brown, associate professor, marketing; Joyce Minter, associate professor, business communications and reports; Verda Rauch, associate professor, secretarial science.

Honorary: Dr. George Rachford, Dean, College of Graduate Studies, Assistant to the President.

Membership in the organization requires holding a three-point grade average and being in the upper ten percent class standing in the College of Business Administration.

This is the second group initiated. The Chapter was installed on campus in November of 1965.

Mill Increase—

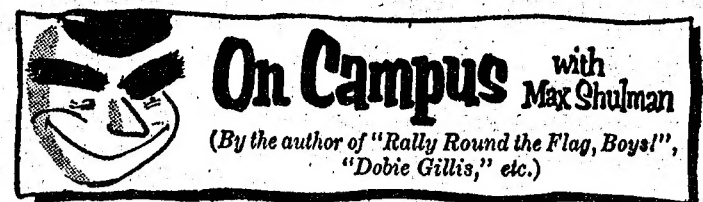

Rachford Thanks Helpers

Dean George Rachford, who was in charge of the mill levy campaign, commented: "I regret very much that the people of Omaha have not seen fit to increase their support of the OU mill levy.

"The news media all did an excellent job of telling the story about the need for additional help and I would hope that people were really aware of the need. It still exists and is just as real as it ever was."

I want to thank everyone who worked so hard and so long to try to put the story across; the students, alumni, faculty, and all of the friends of the University. Their efforts were a real inspiration to those of us who were closely associated with the effort.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

THE COLLEGE PRESIDENT: HIS CAUSE AND CURE

Oh, sure, you've been busy, what with going to classes, doing your homework, catching night crawlers, getting married, picketing—but can't you pause for just a moment and give thought to that dear, dedicated, lonely man in the big white house on the hill? I refer, of course, to Prexy.

(It is interesting to note that college presidents are always called "Prexy." Similarly, trustees are always called "Trixie." Associate professors are always called "Axy-Pixy." Bursars are called "Foxy-Woxy." Students are called "Algae.")

But I digress. We were speaking of Prexy, a personage at once august and pathetic. Why pathetic? Well, sir, consider how Prexy spends his days. He is busy, busy, busy. He talks to deans, he talks to professors, he talks to trustees, he talks to alumni. In fact, he talks to everybody except the one group who could lift his heart and rally his spirits. I mean, of course, the appealing, endearing, winsomest group in the entire college—delightful you, the students.

It is Prexy's sad fate to be forever a stranger to your laughing, golden selves. He can only gaze wistfully out the window of his big white house on the hill and watch you at your games and sports and yearn with all his tormented heart to bask in your warmth. But how? It would hardly be fitting for Prexy to appear one day at the Union, clad in an old rowing blazer, and cry gaily, "Heigh-ho, chaps! Who's for sculling?"

No, friends, Prexy can't get to you. It is up to you to get to him. Call on him at home. Just drop in unannounced. He will naturally be a little shy at first, so you must put him at his ease. Shout, "Howdy-doo, sir! I have come to bring a little sunshine into your drear and blighted life!" Then yank his necktie out of his vest and scamper goatlike around him until he is laughing merrily along with you.

Then hand him a package and say, "A little gift for you, sir."

"For me?" he will say, lowering his lids. "You shouldn't have."

"Yes, I should," you will say, "because this is a pack of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, and whenever I think of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, I think of you."

"Why, hey?" he will ask curiously.

"Because, sir," you will say, "though you are no longer a young blade, still you gleam and function. Full though you are of years and lumps, rheumy though your endocrines and flaccid your hamstrings, still you remain sharp, incisive, efficacious."

"Thank you," he will say, sobbing.

"So it is with Personna," you will continue. "Naturally you expect a brand-new blade to give a close, speedy shave. But how about a blade that's had hard and frequent use? Do you still expect a close, speedy shave? Well, sir, if it's a Personna, that's what you'll get. Because, sir, like you, sir, Personna is no flash-in-the-pan. Like you, sir, Personna abides."

He will clasp your hand then, not trusting himself to speak.

"But away with gloom!" you will cry jollily. "For I have still more good news to tell you of Personna!"

"How is that possible?" he will say.

"Hearken to me," you will say. "Personna, in all its enduring splendor, is available not only in Double Edge style but also in Injector style!"

He will join you then in the Personna rouser, and then he will bring you a steaming cup of cocoa with a marshmallow on top. Then you will say, "Good-bye, sir. I will return soon again to brighten your dank, miasmic life."

"Please do," he will say. "But next time, if you can possibly manage it, try not to come at four in the morning."
